Re: Medley Site, Gaffney, South Carolina

Gentlemen:

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) from June 1983 until July 1983 spent approximately $600,000 in federal funds removing hazardous substances and chemical wastes from the above-mentioned, abandoned site. Based on observations by the Federal On Scene Coordinator during the cleanup of this site, EPA has information that indicates that your company may be a responsible party in that drums bearing your company's labels and markings were discovered on the Medley Site. Responsible parties under the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980, 42 U.S.C. Section 9601 et seq. (CERCLA) include the current and past owner or operator, and persons who are involved in the disposal or treatment or who arranged for the transportation of hazardous substances for the purpose of treatment or disposal of them at the site. Under CERCLA, and other laws, responsible parties may be liable for money expended by the government to take necessary corrective action at the site, including investigation, planning, cleanup of the site and enforcement. EPA responded to and cleaned up hazardous substances at the Medley Site and is seeking to recover its response and cleanup costs from potentially - responsible parties.

The purpose of this letter is to notify you of your possible liability as a potentially - responsible party and to secure certain information from you. Under the provisions of Section 104 of CERCLA, 42 U.S.C. 9604, and Section 3007 of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA), 42 U.S.C. 6927 as amended by the Solid Waste Disposal Act Amendments of 1980, the Administrator of EPA has the authority to require any person who generates, stores, treats, transports, disposes of, or otherwise handles or has handled hazardous wastes or substances to furnish information related to such wastes to EPA. Please be advised that Section 103(d)(2) of CERCLA, 42 U.S.C. §9603(d)(2), imposes criminal sanctions for any person who destroys, mutilates, erases, disposes of, conceals, or otherwise renders unavailable or falsifies any such records.
